Gospel Reflection

The Immaculate Conception of our Lady, and her Assumption are usually cited as the only instances of the exercise of Papal Infallibility. However, we also believe that the whole Episcopate in union with the Holy Father can also teach infallibly (this being spelled out at the Second Vatican Council), and the two great Marian dogmas fit more neatly into this category than into purely 'Papal' infallibility. But I think that it might be argued that there have been two occasions when the Pope alone has defined the faith for the Church, and both of them are to be found in the Bible. The first is in today's Gospel, where, the other disciples having havered, St Peter proclaims clearly on their behalf the identity of our Lord; You are the Christ, the Son of the living God. Jesus responds directly with Simon Peter's commission that we are accustomed to relate directly to his Papal office: 'You are Peter (= 'the rock'), and on this rock I will build my Church' It might be argued that Simon the disciple was not yet fully Peter the Pope, but it is interesting that his profound, unquestionably correct inspiration should be, as it were, the spark which brings the Lord's commission of Simon Peter for the Papal office. The other exercise of something like Papal Infallibility, by the way, is to be found in the Acts of the Apostles, (Chapter 10) where St Peter, under direct inspiration, teaches that Gentiles are equal in the sight of God with Jews.

The papal office does have its limitations, however. It certainly does not suggest that everything a Pope says is going to be infallible; only three small verses after today's Gospel passage, our Lord rebukes Peter very sharply indeed 'Get behind me, Satan' for his suggestion that our Lord's death should be prevented. And we have the unfortunate example of many popes who have been no better than they should be, and some a great deal worse. Which is why the First Vatican Council chose to hedge the charism of Infallibility around with stringent conditions—no doubt Providentially—lest some future Pope confuse, like his great predecessor, St Peter, his private judgment with his divinely-appointed office.

And, of course, we must not forget to pray for our Holy Father, Pope Francis, that he guide the Church wisely, not only when he teaches in the solemn magisterium, but also in the ordinary prudential judgements made from day to day, which are really the bread-and-butter matters that actually shape events in the Church.

St Thomas' Church - For those of you not on email .

As you are aware, we have been planning a final celebration Mass at St Thomas' which was due to take place next month, July 12th. Very regrettably, we have been advised by inspectors, and also the Diocesan authorities and their insurers, that to proceed would be very imprudent as new deterioration has become apparent in the building. This is advice we must heed. So, I would welcome your feedback on what form you would like a celebration to take, if you wish to proceed at all. The options are

- 1) A Mass at the Sacred Heart, with a celebration afterwards in the Centenary Hall.
- 2) Simply a celebration in the Centenary Hall, with sharing of pictures, stories, &c.
- 3) I might approach Rev. Tim Goode at St Luke's, Whyteleafe and ask if we might borrow the church there for a Mass.
- 4) Nothing at all; simply let it go.

We now have more time to plan, and are no longer dependent on the weather, so we don't have to do this very soon.

Please remember in your prayers the souls of Eileen Kelly and Richard Richardson who passed away recently.

The Funeral service (not Requiem Mass) for Ricard Richardson will be held on Wednesday 1st July 2015 at 1:30pm.

The Requiem Mass for Eileen Kelly will be held on Monday 6th July at 10am.

TODAY there will be a second collection for Peter's Pence - this collection is not eligible for Parish Gift Aid. Please do not use your envelopes for this collection.
